FRANCE OFFERS DEAL ON COLONIES

Owners Get $133,500 for Bean Land and Citrus Grove

RECORD PRICE IS PAID FOR ORCHARD

Huntington Beach Men Acquire Ranch at Midway City

Seventy-one acres of valuable Orange county citrus and bean land had traded hands today in two separate deals involving about $133,500.

Thirty-one acres of orchard land at La Habra Heights were sold at the highest price for orchard land in the last eight years. Andrew E. Griswold of Seattle purchased the 31 acres for $103,500, it was announced by Edwin G. Hart company, developers of the heights.

Bean Land Sold
Sixteen of the 31 acres are utilized for growing Valencia oranges and about 11 acres for lemons. Avocados and citrus also are grown on the property.

Forty acres of rich Orange county bean land also traded hands today in a deal involving around $30,000. R. F. Hazard of Midway City completed a deal whereby C. E. Worthy and C. J. Porter of Huntington Beach acquire title to 40 acres of land south of Midway City.

Deal Recorded
Property involved in the transaction is located on Smetzer road just south of Midway city. The deal was handled by Ed L. Hensley, Midway City realtor, and papers were handled through the Abstract Title Insurance company.

The deal was recorded today. The deed carried revenue stamps valued at $28, indicating that the purchase price was close to $30,000.

Purchasers of the bean land already farm considerable acreage in the vicinity of their new property.

ONE WRECKED PLANE FOUND

KELLOGG, Ida. (AP)—A ground party led by Fred Cunningham reported shortly before noon today discovery of the wreckage of the Northwest Airlines mail transport which crashed eight days ago in the mountainous region 15 miles south of here.

The party did not locate the bodies of the two pilots, Joe Livermore and Arthur A. Haid.

Cunningham came here to report the discovery, leaving three low searchers behind him. He said the plane was "badly wrecked," and the searchers did not pry into it, awaiting arrival on the scene of postal inspectors.

Utah searchers for the missing transport plane, which disappeared near Milford Dec. 15 with seven persons, expressed fear snow might bury the wreckage until spring. Scores of reports as to the plane's whereabouts have proved incorrect.

Last of O'Leary Family Is Dead

CHICAGO. (AP)—Mrs. Catherine O'Leary, 70, last member of the O'Leary family whose cow some say started the Chicago fire, died of heart disease last night at her home.

Mrs. Ledwell always denied the legend that the O'Leary cow kicked over a lamp in their barn and touched off the great blaze of 1871.

Holiday Brings Tragedy

The Christmas spirit really lives at Costa Mesa today.

But first came tragedy in which a home, Christmas tree and all its presents were burned to the ground. The losses, partly covered by insurance, was estimated at $3,000 to $4,000.

The Vern Abbott family was away when the home built two years ago at Wilson street and Newport road caught fire. Only the little gray kitten was at home. Mrs. Abbott, who sells produce on a route, was away. Two sons, two and eight years old, were with their mother at a neighbor's. They

CHANG FREES PREMIER OF CHINA

War Lord Throws Self On Mercy of His Recent Captive

NANKING. (AP)—Rebellious Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, asserting his willingness to "suffer death," threw himself tonight on the mercy of his former captive at Sianfu, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

The leader of the military mutiny which caused a grave governmental crisis made known his intention in a letter addressed to the premier shortly after his arrival in the capital.

The letter said:
"I am ready to suffer whatever you and your government desire. Whether it means death or not, I am here and ready for I realize my wickedness and my sin against you and the nation."

Chang, it was disclosed, is being held at Sianfu.

MERRIAM WILL SEEK ECONOMY

LONG BEACH. (AP)—Governor Merriam said today he would recommend to the state legislature Jan. 4 a reorganization of the state government aimed at greater efficiency and economy.

He declined to give details in a press interview here, but said the state relief administration and social welfare department are likely to be affected.

"There is duplication of effort in these two departments and I shall recommend that the needless expense be eliminated."

Merriam said he would recommend enactment of a measure to enable the state to develop the oil in state-owned tidelands.

"That oil belongs to the people of the state and it should be recovered," he asserted.

DISCOVER 'GIRL' IS REALLY BOY

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP)—Dr. W. Baird Stuart disclosed today an automobile accident led to discovery that Gretta Bobb, of Mt. Hot Springs, for 11 years reared and dressed as a girl, is a boy.

The surgeon said a simple operation after the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bobb was injured by an automobile a week before Christmas, revealed Gretta's true sex. Gretta's ankle was broken, and the surgeon made a physician examination at the same time he treated the ankle.

Now at home, awaiting rechristening as a boy, Gretta got a boy-style haircut and clothing. He is going back to the hospital in a few days for another operation.

were talking of plans for Christmas, remembering their gay tree at home.

Hampered by a scarcity of water the Costa fire department was unable to save the house. But Mrs. Abbott dashed home, opened a door to the blazing structure, rushed in and saved the kitten.

When Mr. Abbott's customers heard of the tragedy they gave the Abbotts several large boxes full of toys for the youngsters and groceries for the entire family.

And so the Christmas spirit really lives at Costa Mesa.

Doctor Ends Riot Of Insane Women With Xmas Stories

NEW YORK. (AP)—Christmas stories told by a psychiatrist quieted a tempestuous ward of Bellevue hospital last night after a two-hour riot by 40 women patients.

A favorite of the patients, Dr. Karl M. Bowman, director of the psychiatric service at Bellevue, brought order to the ward when he was called from his home at the height of the disturbance.

He persuaded the women, many less than 21 years old, to sit down and talk things over. One of the patients asked for a Christmas story. He told one. That called for another, and presently the ward was back to normal.

CRASH KILLS S. A. WOMAN

Constance Schnebly Hit By Car After Saving Friend's Life

Struck by an automobile as she stepped from a street car, Mrs. Constance Schnebly of Santa Ana was instantly killed last night in Los Angeles. There were several accidents in Orange county, but no fatalities.

She was struck as she pushed a friend, Louise Harlan, 12, to safety. Police reported. The tragedy occurred at Jefferson and Raymond avenues. John T. Tsuchiya of Pasadena, said to be driver of the car, was held on manslaughter charges.

Miss Harlan, a visitor from Glendale, Ariz., told police Mrs. Schnebly lived in Santa Ana, and police here were called to check the address. She had lived here for many years, at 731 Cypress street, and had come to Hollywood to spend Christmas with her daughter, Ellen. Her daughter, now a Hollywood writer, was formerly society editor of The Journal.

Arrange Services

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Ellen Going, Los Angeles; three brothers, Charles F. and William H. Going of Sacramento, and Maj. Charles Going of Topeka, Kan.; and four sisters, Mrs. J. C. Keyes, Mrs. Fred Mansur and Miss Mary Going of Los Angeles, and Miss Katherine Going of Sacramento.

Private Christian Science funeral services, with cremation in Santa Ana, were being arranged today.

After his car assertedly struck several other autos at Fairview and Sycamore streets and then crashed into a fence, George Morgan, 1025 West Chestnut street, was taken to the county hospital for treatment early yesterday. He incurred lacerations about the face and hands, and a bruised chest.

Auto Skidded

Ruth Rime, 931 South Ross street, was treated at Santa Ana Valley hospital today for a fractured nose, incurred when her car skidded on McFadden street.

Skigeko Tanfura, 15, route 4, Santa Ana, was cut and bruised yesterday afternoon when a car driven by Norborn Tanfura, 29, struck an auto driven by Orville Flannery, 24, route 1, Anaheim, on Garden Grove boulevard.

Eleanor Hoyt, 31, and Hubert Earl Hoyt, 30, Los Angeles, were slightly injured Thursday afternoon when their car collided on the Laguna canyon road with an auto driven by William G. Glover, 31, Escondido.

Henry Lee, 1445 Crosby street, San Diego, and Margaret Howard, San Pedro, suffered slight injuries in an accident at Dana Point at 7:30 o'clock Friday morning. Lee's lip was cut, while Miss Howard suffered a bruised leg and cuts about the face. Dr. B. B. Mason, Laguna Beach, treated their injuries, which did not stop the couple from continuing their trip.

ADOPTION OF NEW LAW TO BE URGED

Definition of Waste in Proposed Ordinance Hits Duck Ponds

The death knell was being tolled today for Orange county's nine gun clubs.

If the regulatory ordinance proposed by the Orange County Farm Bureau and Orange County Water district is adopted by the board of supervisors it will knock the gun clubs out of existence, The Journal learned today.

One short paragraph suggested in the lengthy ordinance packs all its wallop.

To Ask Action

"Waste water . . . is any pumped water used for flooding of any land, ponds, or artificial reservoir, for the purpose of attracting wild game and aquatic birds."

Every day's continuance of waste of water is construed to be a new and separate offense. Violators could be punished by a fine of from $25 to $500 and/or imprisonment for not more than six months.

It is expected that the board of supervisors will be asked to take action on repeal of county ordinance 350, and to revise or strengthen ordinance 349. Suggestions made in the new ordinance proposed are expected to form the basis of proposed revisions. Leaders of the two water groups indicated that they will ask the supervisors to clear up the present county water ordinances before they will back the countywide $150,000 water program.

OCEAN GIVES UP MAN'S BODY

A middle-aged man found drowned near Capistrano Beach this morning was unidentified this afternoon, as Coroner Earl Abbey prepared for an autopsy.

The body, found in a small slough near the bridge just north of Capistrano Beach, was dressed in vest and trousers of a brown suit, wore green sleeve holders and black shoes. The victim was approximately 5 feet 6 inches tall, the coroner reported. The body was taken to the Divil funeral home, San Clemente.

Christmas Marred By 265 Traffic Deaths In Nation

(By the Associated Press)

Unseasonable weather and prosperous business conditions brought to the United States one of the merriest Christmas days in history.

Millions of dollars' worth of gifts were exchanged in quantities which merchandising organizations reported to be near a record.

Charity groups, which found their task of collecting funds easier than in many years, gave food and good cheer to thousands, but their burden was lightened by the increase in employment.

There was a tragic side of the day, however, with at least 265 persons meeting sudden death in holiday accidents, mainly caused by automobile crashes.

The death toll in the United States was far worse than in earlier battles. Madrid, where airplane bombs and artillery shells, smashing into the Spanish capital, killed only five.

In Bethlehem, British troops on garrison duty to prevent rioting in the Holy Land, sang Christmas carols in the streets.

President Roosevelt had 16 members of his family in the White House, but Mrs. Roosevelt was in Boston with her son, Franklin, jr., who is recovering from a sinus operation.

England rejoiced over the birth of a Christmas baby—a princess—to the Duke and Duchess of Kent. She becomes sixth in the line of succession to the throne.

Elopers Run Down Mother of Bride

A young Joliet, Ill., eloper was accused of running down and severely injuring his mother-in-law as the couple fled the bride's home to be married. Linus Rabberg, the 23-year-old bridegroom, and his 18-year-old wife, Lorraine Hossbach Rabberg, are shown (left) after he had been arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill Mrs. Fred Hossbach (right). Officers said the young man admitted knowing his car had struck Mrs. Hossbach as she tried to stop the elopement. (Associated Press photos.)

CONDITION OF POPE WORSE

Entire Left Side Now Paralyzed; Pontiff In Great Pain

VATICAN CITY. (AP)—Extension of partial paralysis over Pope Pius' entire left side caused grave concern tonight among prelates in the Vatican.

The spread of the Pontiff's affliction was disclosed by reliable sources who declared the holy father was entirely unable to move his legs.

Persistent hope for his recovery gave way to pessimism as word of the development spread through the palace.

Many prelates have abandoned all expectations the Pope will emerge from his present illness, while some acknowledged sadly a critical turn within the next few days would not be surprising.

All church officials of state were barred from the sick room. Even ecclesiastical problems of the highest importance were withheld from the Pontiff, who was reported suffering from "piercing, insistent spasms of pain."

Dr. Amanti Milani, the Pope's physician, was declared to be in almost constant attendance at his bedside.

1935 Extortion Plot Is Solved

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Handwritten evidence painstakingly gathered by department of justice agents was credited today with solving an extortion attempt against Miss Lillian Pierce of Danville, Ky., in September, 1935.

A 16-year-old Danville neighbor of Miss Pierce, Thomas Cecil, is under arrest as the alleged author of a note which demanded $250, on threats of death.

Windsor Jokes At Kids' Party

ENZESFELD, Austria. (AP)—Some 220 Austrian children all but mobbed the Duke of Windsor at this village's Christmas party today.

The former king of England sat for an hour and 10 minutes beside a Christmas tree in a tiny hall, joking with the children as they received their gifts.

Many worked their way between the legs of amused policemen to reach Edward. None quite managed to get into his lap, but several boasted: "I touched him."

PLAN RETURN TO GERMANY ON 'TERMS'

Specifies Hitler Must Disarm, and Refuse Aid to Spanish

PARIS. (AP)—France is willing to give Germany back her former colonies in return for a full and lasting settlement of European worries as to the third Reich's future path, officials of the foreign office said today.

Such a settlement must include Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's promise to participate in controlled disarmament, as well as his stoppage of volunteer German enlistments in Spain, they said.

Hitler must also renounce territorial claims within Europe and agree to return to economic collaboration with the world, it was stated.

On the other hand, the officials said, if Hitler desires the colonies only to make Germany stronger in a warlike way, "he will have to take them from France by force."

The colonies now under French mandate from the League of Nations which would be concerned in such a deal are Togoland and the Cameroons. They have a combined area in Africa of 188,321 square miles, and officials declared, are "paying proportionate Togo is rich in the raw material Germany needs—iron, rubber, dyewoods. Cameroon produces timber, hides and ivory, and is especially suitable for the raising of livestock."

STRIKE STILL DEADLOCKED

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Demands of union ships' officers for preference in hiring came to the front in the 10-day Pacific coast maritime strike as Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady sought another peace conference here today.

McGrady, tireless "trouble shooter" for the labor department, called upon the coast committee for offshore shipowners and the Masters, Mates and Pilots union to renew negotiations.

DEATH TAKES BRISBANE

Columnist Dies in His Sleep; Was Highest Paid Newspaperman

NEW YORK. (AP)—Tribute came from all parts of the nation today for Arthur Brisbane, editor and columnist, whose death at 72 took from American journalism one of its best known figures.

The noted writer, in failing health for several months, died in his sleep in his apartment yesterday, as newspaper presses rolled out his last column—a Christmas message he had dictated only a few hours before.

Brisbane suffered a heart attack Thursday afternoon, but insisted on dictating the column. He slept that night under an oxygen tent, but succumbed about 5:30 a. m.

Brisbane began his amazingly successful career 53 years ago as a "cub" reporter on the New York Sun. He became America's highest paid newspaper writer, drawing an annual salary of $260,000.

President Roosevelt led in messages of sympathy sent to the writer's family. He messaged Brisbane's daughter, Mrs. Sarah Brisbane McCarty.

"Mrs. Roosevelt and I extend our sincere sympathy and wish you to know our thoughts are with you in the loss of your father. I had known him for many years and took keen delight, whenever I had the opportunity, of exploring with him the teachings of history and the philosophy of our civilization."

Dog Gives Life To Save Mistress

Her 2-year-old police dog dead in a heroic attempt to save his mistress, Mrs. Dorothy Blose of Los Angeles, former Santa Ana resident, lay critically injured in a Los Angeles hospital today.

Prince, the dog martyr, leaped savagely at an approaching car as he and his mistress crossed a street in Los Angeles. He plunged between the headlights of the car and was instantly killed. The car, said to be driven by Martha Kemp, 28, then struck Mrs. Blose, injuring her critically.

Mrs. Blose is the daughter-in-law of David Blose, 1707 Spurgeon street, Santa Ana.

SPLIT LOOMS IN OUTFALL DISTRICT

Northern Cities Might Withdraw If Peace Move Fails

Withdrawal of northern cities and sanitary districts from the Orange county joint outfall sewer system is the next step if peace overtures made to Santa Ana fail, according to indications today.

City attorneys who reported on three possible legal courses to settle a six-month controversy over choice of concrete or vitrified clay pipe in sewer repairs, discussed withdrawal plans Wednesday night in a closed session with board members.

New Plan Advanced
The truce proposal is for Santa Ana, which wants concrete, to build its share of the line with that material, and for the other cities to build their share of vitrified clay. Each would agree to maintain its section for 30 years, under the proposed plan.

In open session the committee, headed by Gordon X. Richmond, with H. A. McCabe, La Habra city attorney, and George Holden, Anaheim city attorney, reported there is little chance of success in a suit to compel a majority rule. Under present contracts, all members must agree on a course of action.

Attorneys suggested a suit for declaratory relief, which in effect asks the court to determine the rights of the various parties involved. This would require a decision on whether concrete or vitrified pipe is to be used, and would be expensive because expert testimony of engineers would be required.

Legal Complications
If the northern cities wish to build their own line parallel to the new one now falling apart, they can bring suit to have the right-of-way and equipment divided, but this would still leave the official decision the matter of liability for the old line, the attorneys reported.

Councilman Cal Lester and Mayor A. C. Boice of Orange reported that they had found on an inspection trip with Santa Ana officials that the line in question always previously referred to as a concrete line, is made of vitrified clay blocks, cemented together.

The clay, he said, is sound, but the concrete is crumbling away.

MORE ABOUT GUN CLUBS

that it is "an ordinance licensing pumping wells and regulating the use of water pumped therefrom and preventing the waste of water pumped therefrom and defining the terms beneficial use, irrigation water, propagation of fish, recreational uses and other terms and providing penalties for violation thereof."

Comprehensive in scope, the suggested ordinance has 11 sections dealing with the problem of controlling the beneficial and non-beneficial use of water.

The ordinance makes it unlawful for any person, firm, etc., "to cause, permit or suffer any water well or wells under the control of" such persons or firms, "to be pumped so as to cause water to flow from such well or wells without first having procured a license so to do, and complied with the requirements and paid the license fee obtained as provided by ordinance by the county of Orange."

Recreation Use
After defining a pumping well, the ordinance defines an unnecessary flow of water to be "the causing, suffering or permitting water pumped from a pumping well to be stored or used for any purpose other than a beneficial use or recreation," as defined in the ordinance.

"Beneficial use" is defined to be the "causing, suffering or permitting any water pumped from a pumping well to be used for the purposes of irrigation of land, and for domestic use, or for the propagation of fish."

Section five of the ordinance defines "irrigation of land," and says this is the artificial application of water to lands whenever rainfall is insufficient, sufficient moisture being applied to promote plant growth, having reference to the particular kind of crops grown and the particular type of soil involved and the area where grown.

Defines Terms
"Propagation of fish" is defined as applying to breeding or propagation of fish as a commercial enterprise.

The major part of the ordinance is devoted to a definition of the term "recreational use." This use was said to be the "causing, suffering or permitting any water pumped from any pumping well to be used for the flooding of any land, ponds or artificial reservoir, for the purpose of attracting wild game and aquatic birds."

The terms "gun club" and "shooting club" are defined at length. Any waters taken from any river, creek, lake, bay, or other natural or artificial water course either by gravity flow or with the aid of mechanical devices and thereafter mingled with waters from a pumping well, are deemed to be water from a pumped well and subject to provisions of the ordinance.

Provision is made that all licenses must be procured from the county clerk before commencement or continuance of pumping of water from a well. Under provisions of the ordinance the license would be issued either for beneficial uses or for recreational uses.

Prefer Prayer to Medicine

The Rev. and Mrs. L. M. Hart removed their son, Ralph, 16, from a Dallas hospital to pray for divine healing of a skull fracture he suffered in a traffic accident. Although they forbade medical attention for the boy, they finally allowed a physician to set a broken collarbone. He said the boy, whose condition improved on the second day, had a fifty-fifty chance to live. (Associated Press Photo)

FORGOT HE WAS BURGLAR Wakes Up And Finds Loot

There's one Santa Ana man who got the collective instinct Christmas eve. He "burgled" a service station of $195 worth of tires, oil, and a slot machine. But when he found the goods in his garage next day, he didn't know how they got there.

While police looked around Cliff's service station, 1248 West First street, for fingerprints, a bleary-eyed individual came into the police station Christmas morning.

INDIA TALKS SENTENCE 4 CORONATION IN BABY BOYCOTT FRAUD

BOMBAY, India. (AP)—Adoption of a resolution by the Indian national committee to boycott coronation ceremonies for George VI in India was considered by well-informed sources today to be virtually certain.

The resolution against the projected durbar, a rite at which the new British king would be proclaimed emperor of India, would implore Indians to avoid "any imperialist celebrations or functions connected with the coronation, as such festivities are meant to tend to strengthen the hold of British imperialism or add to its prestige."

Drafted by leaders of the congress at Faizpur, it was scheduled for submission before a full committee today.

WOMAN IS SLAIN AT XMAS PARTY

JACKSONVILLE, Tex. (AP)—The slaying of Mrs. William McKinney, prominent in East Texas civic and church affairs, marked today a tragic ending to a Christmas day family party.

The shooting, in which the 51-year-old woman's husband was wounded in the leg, occurred at the McKinney country home, three miles south of Jacksonville.

Y. A. McGowan, 35, former husband of Louise Beall, 22, a niece of Mrs. McKinney, was in jail at Rusk. County Attorney Emerson Stone said a charge of assault with intent to murder was filed against McGowan before Mrs. McKinney died.

Stone said Mr. and Mrs. McKinney were wounded with buckshot fired from an automatic shotgun. The county attorney said witnesses told him McGowan entered the home through a rear door, interrupted the party and ordered the guests to line up. He was informed the shooting followed a few minutes later.

Two Men Admit Poison Murder

OZARK, Ark. (AP)—Sheriff Champ Crawford said today two men had admitted giving poison whiskey to Monroe Larrimore and implicated Larrimore's widow in a plot to kill the 44-year-old World War veteran. Larrimore died.

Sheriff Crawford gave an illicit love affair as the motive and said Arch Ross, 26, and Haskell Bent, 19, of Watauga, Ark., had signed statements admitting the poisoning.

The widow, Mrs. Julia Larrimore, 40, was held but made no statement.

Licenses would be good for five years and would cost one dollar. Considerable detail is given to the matter of obtaining a license. Applicants would give permission to the board of supervisors, or its representatives, to enter upon premises to be watered to read water meters, check use of water, measure flow of wells and for any other purpose considered reasonable to enforce the ordinance.

P. O. MEN GET RAISES FOR CHRISTMAS

Uncle Sam will play Santa Claus to three officials of the Santa Ana postoffice this next year.

The government will give Postmaster Frank Harwood, Assistant Postmaster Elmer Smith and Superintendent of Mails L. F. Harvey a raise of $100 a year, effective July 1.

This is because of the record-smashing Christmas business done by the local postoffice this year, putting the local office from the net $140,000 business class into the $150,000 class, automatically giving the three men a boost in pay.

It was a heart-breaking event last year, when the figures were all in and compiled and when it was discovered that the three officials would have received the raises this year—had not the mark been $17.50 short.

Christmas business at the postoffice from Dec. 1 to 25 this year amounted to $23,901.48, a gain of $464.73 over the same period last year. It is expected that total receipts this year, which already have set an all-time annual record, will reach close to the $180,000 mark. Receipts so far amount to $176,744.48 as compared with $162,851.43 at the same time in 1935. The record for an entire year before was in 1930, when the total was $171,725.30.

MORE ABOUT GERMANY

authoritative sources said, have joined in the demand that Germany enter a general disarmament, as well as stop the flow of troops to Spain, if she is to get economic help.

This became known after it was disclosed Great Britain and France had begun the outline of a program to give the rich access to European raw material markets as a projected reward for refusing to send military assistance to Spanish fascists.

The further condition for such economic help will be a German pledge to curb the Reich's arms making race, informed persons stated.

At the same time, qualified government spokesmen let it be known that France and Great Britain have no intention of backing down on their demand for guarantees by Adolf Hitler against the sending of either regular troops or volunteer civilians to Spain.

COLONIAL CONCESSIONS MAY SOLVE DISPUTE
BERLIN. (AP)—Colonial concessions to Germany may solve the international crisis centering on Nazi aid to Fascist Spain, well informed sources said today.

These persons disclosed that the week's grave conferences in Paris between French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos and German Ambassador Count Johannes von Welczeck had involved not only the sending of German soldiers to Spain, but Germany's urgent need for raw materials as well.

Germany Needs Minerals
M. Delbos, it was stated, dropped the hint France was not blind to the theory that Spanish iron, copper, lead and manganese—rather than the pursuit of glory and prestige—was the driving motive behind German "volunteers" who are fighting for the insurgents.

Germany needs these minerals badly. And, said informed observers, while a victory for the Spanish Fascists would mean an economic victory for Germany, a Spanish Fascist defeat might spell economic disaster in the Reich.

REBELS RETIRING, SOCIALISTS CLAIM
MADRID. (AP)—Socialist troops, continuing their drive to stem an insurgent advance on Madrid from the south, clashed today with Fascist attackers in the Boadilla del Monte sector.

The war ministry asserted the enemy was slowly retiring along the fortified line three miles west of the capital's boundary line.

SOCIALIST BOMBS KILL 11 FASCISTS
MADRID. (AP)—Delayed—Socialist planes dumped bombs last night into a Fascist Christmas celebration behind the Madrid front lines.

Eleven soldiers were killed in the raid on the barracks at Getafe, about six miles south of Madrid.

15 Drown When Boat Overturns

KINGSTON, JAMAICA. (AP)—Grapplers searched today for the bodies of five persons lost yesterday when a harbor launch, overcrowded with Christmas merry-makers, capsized less than a half mile off shore.

The bodies of 10 other victims of the Christmas disaster were prepared for burial. All were negroes.

The joyous celebration suddenly was turned into tragedy when the little boat overturned in swerving around an anchored steamship.

At least 35 passengers were known to have been aboard.

Mary and Buddy To Marry 'Soon'
NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers will be married "soon," they said before taking off by plane for the Pacific coast.

JOE SKIDMORE CONVICTION REVERSED

Joe Skidmore, pioneer Laguna Beach realtor, was exonerated today of charges of disturbing the peace of which he had been found guilty by Judge C. C. Cravath of Laguna Beach.

In a ruling filed today, Superior Judge James L. Allen reversed the decision of the lower court, marking the latest step in a dispute of long duration between Skidmore and Elmer Crawford, Coast Royal promoter.

The trouble started last September. Skidmore had presented the county with 4000 feet of ocean frontage at Coast Royal in 1926. He erected buildings on the ocean front park, placed tables, benches and incinerators on the property and expended around $10,000 to develop the park, he said. He said the park was deeded to the county by absolute conveyance.

Demands Property
In 1930, Skidmore claims, Crawford acquired an interest in about a third of the lots at Coast Royal and began promoting the subdivision. Crawford, he contends, has closed most of the rights of way leading from Coast boulevard to the park and also has taken part of the park equipment to use on his own property.

According to the story told today by Skidmore, he demanded return of the property and last September Crawford had him arrested, claiming Skidmore had threatened his life. Skidmore spent a night in jail, and Judge Cravath subsequently found him guilty of disturbing the peace and gave him a 10-day jail sentence, which was suspended.

To Launch Probe
Skidmore appealed the decision to the superior court, and Judge Allen's decision reversed the ruling of Judge Cravath.

District Attorney W. F. Mentz said today he will launch an investigation, and if it is true that Crawford has possession of public property, the necessary action to effect its return will be taken.

"I will never rest until the park, with its buildings and rights of way are returned to the use of the public, for which they were intended," Skidmore said today. Skidmore estimated that the beach frontage is worth a half-million dollars. He said that altogether he has given Orange county 7000 feet of ocean frontage as a public park.

Girl, Back Home One Day, Again Reported Missing

PINEVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Chester Ridings said today he was informed that Vivian Lee, 17-year-old National Youth administration worker, "slipped away" from her home near Colmar, Ky., last night shortly after she was restored to her father, Jim Henry Lee, Bell county auditor.

Her father was reported to have left his office at the courthouse to renew the hunt. The deputy said it was possible the girl, who was found alone at a hotel in Clinton, Tenn., Christmas day after having been missing a week, had gone to a neighbor's home.

Sheriff J. W. Ridings, who returned the former University of Kentucky co-ed from Clinton, instructed his deputies to press the hunt for A. G. Cawood, coal operator, accused by Lee of abducting the girl.

Young Roosevelt Is 'Doing Fine'

BOSTON. (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., son of the President, was "convalescing perfectly," his physician reported today as Miss Ethel DuPont, his fiancée, arrived unexpectedly at the Massachusetts General hospital.

Dr. George Loring Tobey, who has been treating young Roosevelt, announced his patient has suffered "no setback" and that "there is no possibility of a transfusion."

The daughter of Mrs. Eugene DuPont of Huntington, Del., visited the hospital with Mrs. Roosevelt, who has been in Boston since yesterday morning. Young Roosevelt recently underwent a sinus operation and treatment for Streptococcus infection.

MORE ABOUT CHANG

ing held under guard at the residence of Dr. T. V. Soong, the generalissimo's brother-in-law, who brought the mutineer from Sianfu by plane this afternoon.

Chiang's Aides Flee
General Chiang, meanwhile, returned triumphantly to Nanking to assume control of his nationalist government after spending two weeks as Chang's prisoner in interior Shensi province.

The government announced all of Chiang's lieutenants who were taken prisoner with the generalissimo Dec. 12 had been released from rebel quarters at Sianfu and were en route to Nanking. The punitive military expedition organized prior to the generalissimo's release was ordered halted today by Gen. Ho Ying-Ching, minister of war.

Martial Law Lifted
The central administration also lifted martial law, first proclaimed when the military overlord was taken prisoner. Through his secretaries, General Chang made public a lengthy document reiterating his governmental policies. The statement was declared to have been prepared prior to the premier's detention by Marshal Chang.

Wife Arranged Release
Credit for the dramatic solution to the grim threat of civil war was universally accorded the generalissimo's American-educated wife, the former Mei-Ling Soong, who stood proudly at his side as he took the tumultuous salute of the thousands who rushed to hail their leader's freedom.

With her brother, Dr. Soong, the intrepid Mme. Chiang, unaided by the Nanking government, braved the hardships of her husband's captivity to negotiate directly with the rebel marshal for his release.

Her father was reported to have left his office at the courthouse to renew the hunt. The deputy said it was possible the girl, who was found alone at a hotel in Clinton, Tenn., Christmas day after having been missing a week, had gone to a neighbor's home.

Sheriff J. W. Ridings, who returned the former University of Kentucky co-ed from Clinton, instructed his deputies to press the hunt for A. G. Cawood, coal operator, accused by Lee of abducting the girl.

BOSTON. (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., son of the President, was "convalescing perfectly," his physician reported today as Miss Ethel DuPont, his fiancée, arrived unexpectedly at the Massachusetts General hospital.

Dr. George Loring Tobey, who has been treating young Roosevelt, announced his patient has suffered "no setback" and that "there is no possibility of a transfusion."

STORM ON WAY FROM ALASKA

Spotty showers, that in some parts of the county assumed aspects of a cloudburst, fell early Christmas morning and more has been predicted.

North Orange county communities recorded as high as one and one-half inches of rain, while the southern portion received about an inch less. Santa Ana rainfall was reported .36 inches for the storm, which raised the season's total to 3.19 inches as compared to 1.24 inches at this time last year.

Another storm, weathermen predicted, is about to arrive from Alaska. Mountains should receive a heavy fall of snow and the lowlands quantities of cold rain from the "Alaska type" storm, according to the weather bureau.

FOOD MARKET TO REPLACE LANDMARK

Will Raze City's First House to Make Way For Building

First step toward construction of a big new food market in Santa Ana probably will be taken Monday when razing of Santa Ana's oldest residence is started.

Demolition of George Spangler's blacksmith shop at 205 North Sycamore street, the first residence ever constructed in the city, is expected to start Monday.

For the past 50 years Spangler has been doing blacksmith work in the old building. Now a modern food market will stand where the blacksmith has done his work for half a century.

The property has been purchased by the Pay-Less company, a new $500,000 concern, which will construct a $150,000 building on the property. The food concern, headed by F. L. Sims, Santa Ana, plans to operate markets in other communities.

Spangler's property included a 100-foot frontage on Sycamore. The deal, handled by James Welch, local realtor, also included purchase of property at Second and Sycamore, 50 feet on Sycamore and 125 feet on Second, owned by Dan A. Casey, Laguna Beach. The entire deal involved about $30,000.

Last August the Fascist forces neared Madrid and the war dogs growled louder far from Madrid. Berlin, furious when Spanish leftists sentenced four Germans to die, ordered her fleet to attack if Spain went on halting ships.

Moscow thundered "war is near" and accused the Reich and Japan of forming an alliance.

Paris, aided by London, bustled with efforts to keep hands off the hot Spanish fireworks.

Washington warned Americans they could continue siestas in Spain only at their own risk.

F. D. R. Bares Attack

At Rapid City, S. D., the President, on a "journey of husbandry," released more foreign news: A U. S. destroyer had been attacked thrice by an unidentified airplane off the Spanish coast. It had fired back.

"I hate war," Roosevelt had emphasized earlier.

A battle of another sort was being fought at home:

Smearing sunshine sent swarms of farmers onto WPA.

More than a thousand forest fires darkened the sky.

Townsend News, Views

By WALTER R. ROBB

(This is a non-political, non-partisan column, dealing in Townsend news and views, and written by a prominent Townsend leader. Any opinions which are expressed herein are not necessarily those of The Journal.)

Dr. Francis E. Townsend left the Pacific coast for Chicago Wednesday. He went direct to the national headquarters of the Townsend organization. Matters which were imperative for his attention made it necessary for him to leave the west before Christmas, contrary to what he had intended.

Mrs. Townsend left last Monday, going via South Dakota to visit with a daughter before joining the doctor later in the windy city.

Captain Delbert Brunton, state director of the Townsend movement in California, will spend the next few weeks in the southern portion of the state. A series of mass meetings is being arranged at which he will be the principal speaker.

Edward J. Marget, former state director, is spending the holidays at home with his family in San Francisco before going to Chicago. His daughter, Miss Jacqueline Marget, was the soloist at the Los Angeles Biltmore theater Townsend open house meeting last Tuesday. She is a gifted singer and is now connected with the San Francisco grand opera company.

Herbert F. Kenny of Santa Ana continues in charge of the Biltmore theater Townsend noon-day meetings as master of ceremonies. He reports R. Z. (Bob) Adams was the speaker there on Thursday. John Weir was the speaker today, and Col. Ralph D. Horton will deliver the main address at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. These meetings are free to the public and are held daily at 12 p. m. except Sundays when the hour is 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Palms ballroom at the corner of North Ross and West Third streets will be the scene of two Townsend dance gatherings during the coming week. On Tuesday evening the regular dance will be held as usual, and on Thursday evening there will be a special masquerade affair which is expected to produce a lot of fun. All Townsendites who dance are appreciated when they attend these dances. Others who come as observers will be welcome.

Column Left

By PAUL WRIGHT

HYSTERIA HAS VAGUE SYMPTOMS

Note on Column Lefty Wright's desk, Wright being in Riverside for a few days:

"Hysteria has man vague symptoms."

Food for thought, that is, at least today. And who mentioned food? More white meat? Heaven help us!

Wonder if one of those vague symptoms could be the way Guild the great substitute feels? Or Christmas being finally over—unless you feel the hysterical holiday season is just started . . . along with Santa Anita.

Hysteria has many vague symptoms. . . That's a hell of a thing to find on Wright's desk anyway. Remind me to ask him about it, when he gets back.

Another of my symptoms might be the fact I am supposed to dash off a stupendous column for Saturday and here it is Friday and I'm not out at Santa Anita where everything is happening today.

What to say, leaving out the ponies?

They in themselves are hysteria—not so vague—Vas you see?

SANDOR SZABO BACK IN COUNTY RING

The ladies' favorite will be back to the county ring wars come Monday night, when Sandor Szabo will pit his heroic antics against bone-crushing Jules Strongbow, 380-pound Redskin.

Jules' name, incidentally, is Julius.

Tige Clinton, demon propagandist for Promoter Sam Sampson, doesn't handle a typewriter very well. Several years ago his "is" went on the bum, and he started writing Chief Strongbow's name Jules, and presto—he was Jules then and now. Such is fame, and a name.

Back to Sandor—he'll fill the bill for Chief Little Wolf, who said a Navajo couldn't think of rassing another Indian.

The mighty Tor Johnson, who helped Strongbow tear Sampson's ring to pieces two weeks ago, also will be on the bill of fare. The ring has been reinforced.

NO TURF AGENCY THIS SEASON?

Wonder what the boys will do this year, without the Continental Turf Agency to run in and out of all afternoon?

We can expect the newest crop of bookies to come to full bloom within a week, now that Santa Anita has opened its doors.

There are one or two phone numbers now.

Wonder if the district attorney and Sheriff (Merry Christmas) Jackson will wait till the Santa Anita season is over this year to close them up?

Tickets for the Rose Bowl game arrived yesterday. Lefty got 'em.

Rose Bowl officials have announced that a new all-time Rose Bowl record is assured. Seems they have added 3304 bleacher seats, permitting 87,196 people to watch the game.

In the morning paper—notice next to an ad for Santa Anita another from a market offering caviar at $14 per pound. That's only in case. There was $589,949 bet in Santa Anita yesterday.

NOTE TO A HORSE HANDICAPPER

This is a message to Mr. Al Alvord of The Journal, who had tough luck picking 'em in the Christmas day stakes.

Where did that Goldeneye come from, anyhow?

It was tough that Al's favorites neither of them came to the post, but a horse that can't run in the heavy going isn't such a horse, anyhow. Al picked Sea Biscuit and Accolade. But nobody else picked Goldeneye anyway.

This Baroni fellow runs 'em, doesn't he?

SANTA ANITA BETTING RECORDS FALL

HUBBELL TOPS BIG LEAGUE HURLERS

Dizzy Dean Runs Close Second to Star of Giant Staff

NEW YORK. (AP)—Individual pitching honors in the National league for 1936 went to Southpaw Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants and Dizzy Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals, while the laurel for group performance was captured by the Chicago Cubs mound staff.

The release of the official figures today merely confirmed the knowledge of baseballdom that the annual twirling prize for the lowest earned run average went to "King Carl." With a record of only 2.41 earned runs per nine-inning game, Carl won this distinction for the third time in his career.

Dean Overworked His honors didn't stop there. He scored 28 victories against six defeats, and thus became the seventh pitcher in 24 years to top the long list of both earned-run average and won and lost percentage. Hubbell wound up the season with an unfinished streak of 16 consecutive wins.

"Old Diz," working in 61 games for a total of 315 innings, saw more duty than any other moundsman. The amazing part of it is he posted an earned-run average of 3.17, not far behind Hubbell. He pitched 28 complete games, to lead the league and shade Hubbell by three games. But Dean's 24 won and 13 lost was good for a percentage of only .649, as compared with Hubbell's .813.

Van Lingle Mungo, the Brooklyn Dodger's temperamental right-hander, won strikeout honors with 238 batters going down, but he also issued the most walks, 118, and threw 10 wild pitches to finish one behind "Wild Bill" Hallahan of the Cincinnati Reds.

Other Honors Bucky Walters, the Phillies' converted third baseman, was one of seven who pitched four shutouts during the season, but he also suffered more setbacks than any other twirlers, 11 losses. The other shutout artists were four Cubs—Bill Lee, Larry French, Lon Warneke and Tex Carleton; Cy Blanton of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Al Smith of the Giants.

Other honors went to Pittsburgh's Red Lucas for allowing the fewest hits, 178, and the fewest passes, 36; Big Jim Weaver of the Pirates, with only one hit batsman, and Lucas again for throwing only one wild pitch.

HOLD FINALS IN POLO SUNDAY

SANTA MONICA. (AP)—Finals in polo play for the Will Rogers Memorial trophy will be held Sunday at the Uplifters field with two sons of the late comedian riding for the same team.

Bill and Jimmy Rogers, together with Tex Austin, Jr., and Carl Beal, compose the Uplifter Reds, who go up against Big Boy Williams, Tim Holt, Walter Wagner and Carl Crawford of the Uplifter Whites. Mrs. Rogers will present the trophy.

New Mexico Falls To Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA. (AP)—A disastrous fourth quarter, when Santa Barbara State college pushed across three touchdowns to make the score 25-14, robbed New Mexico A. & M. college of a Christmas day football victory here.

Six thousand fans saw the inter-sectional game played for charity.

Ahead 14-6 at the end of the third period, the visiting Aggies were overwhelmed by two scoring passes and another tally that resulted from a line drive after a New Mexico punt was blocked.

(Sixth in a Series)

NEW YORK. (AP)—The long-distance hitting of the New York Yankees and the peerless pitching of Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants were outstanding features of the 1936 baseball campaigns.

The Yankees practically rewrote the record book. Ignored in the pre-season favorite list, they won ago after a remarkable career, Grove has now led his league two years in a row.

The batting champions of the two leagues were Lou Gehrig of the Chicago White Sox in the American with a mark of .358 and Paul Waner of Pittsburgh in the National with .373.

There were two important administrative changes and one important legislative change in the big leagues. The St. Louis Browns were purchased from the estate of the late Phil Ball by a St. Louis syndicate headed by Donald L. Barnes; and Burleigh Grimes replaced Casey Stengel as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Both administrative moves were made after the close of the season.

The legislative move, passed by both major and minor league club owners, gave major league officials the right to sign sandlot players to minor league contracts without losing the right to claim these players at a later date.

Baseball Commissioner Kenean saw Mountain Landis asked that these transactions be made through his office. This request was denied, marking the first time in Landis' baseball career his power had been curbed.

Attendance Soars All club owners in the majors reported increased attendance over the year before. Unofficial figures showed the Yankees on top with a total home attendance of "almost a million."

Attendance at the New York World Series also reflected better times. The record single-game attendance of 63,900 set by the Yankees and Cards in 1926 was broken twice and a new all-time high of 66,669 established.

The season also produced two land. Weatherly hit .335, and Mike, .328.

It was a hard year on defending batting champions. Both Buddy Meyer of Washington and Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh, 1935 champions of the American and National leagues, respectively, started poorly and were never able to get on top. Meyer slumped 80 points from his winning total and finished with a mark of .269. Vaughan, however, ended with a total of .335.

Other highlights of the season: Tommy Bridges won 23 games for Detroit Tigers, more than any other pitcher in the American league. . . Mel Ott of the Giants finally got clear title to the senior circuit's home-run crown with 33. . . Lou Gehrig ran his iron-man record to 1805 games, hit 49 homers to top the league again, and set new individual American league scoring, total base and runs batted in records. . . Cleveland led the club batting column with a mark of .344. . . Chuck Klein of the Phillies hit four homers on July 10 to set a new modern major league record. . . Pepper Martin of the Cards stole the most bases in his league, 23. . . The Yankees hit 11 homers in two days. . . Hal Trosky of the Indians hit safely in 28 straight games, the best string of the major league season. . . Joe Medwick of the Cards got 10 straight hits, whacked out 64 doubles, a new league record, accumulated the most National league base hits, 223, and the most total bases, 567. . . Dizzy Dean won 24 games, lost 13, and was, as usual, one of the busiest twirlers. . .

Van Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers struck out seven straight Cincinnati batters on June 25, and thereby tied the league record. . . He also struck out more men than anybody in the National, 238, and walked the most, 118. . . Ed Coleman of the Browns had 62 official times at bat as a pinch-hitter and hit safely 20 times. . . The Yankees pounded in 25 runs against the Athletics on May 24. . . Jimmy Fox of the Red Sox outfanned everybody in the league for the sixth straight year, and thereby set a new major league record.

outstanding rookies, Outfielder Joe Di Maggio of the New York Yankees and Pitcher Bob Feller of Cleveland.

Di Maggio hit .323 in 138 games, whacked out 29 home runs, two in one inning and got 206 hits. He was the twelfth major leaguer in history to get more than 200 hits his first year up.

Pitching, despite a protest that he was signed in violation of the major-minor league agreement, Feller won five games and lost three. He tied Dizzy Dean's major league strikeout record by fanning 17 Philadelphia batters on September 13. He pitched to 227 batters and struck out 76, almost one in every three.

LAGUNA RESIDENTS WIN BATTLE FOR REDUCTION OF GAS RATES

SAVES $7300 FOR COAST DISTRICT

Bill of Average Consumer to Be 50 Cents Less; Board Orders Cut

LAGUNA BEACH. — Laguna's lengthy battle over gas rates ended Wednesday with a favorable decision going to consumers who shortly will realize an average reduction of 50 cents per month.

The new rates will mean a yearly reduction of $6000 for the city consumers and a cut of approximately $7500 for the entire South Coast area as a result of a decision reached by the consumers' committee, the Southern Counties Gas Company, and the State Railroad commission, it was learned today.

Under the new schedule, which is similar to the Metropolitan Los Angeles system, the first 200 cubic feet of gas will cost $1, a reduction of 15 cents, with graduated changes making the first 1000 cubic feet cost 80 cents in place of the previous 90 cents.

For the average consumption of 3000 cubic feet, the reduction is made from $3.52 to $3.02, while for the maximum of 50,000 cubic feet a saving of $5 is realized.

At the hearing the gas company offered a cut of $3000, but on the recommendation of the commission represented by James C. McCaffrey, Loren W. East, and C. E. Crenshaw, the counter-proposal of the $7300 yearly reduction was accepted.

The perennial fight for rate reduction was re-opened several months ago by the American Legion with support from a mass meeting. Chamber of commerce officials joined in the fight and the battle from two fronts was centralized with the gas company taking the railroad commission's recommendation which had been solicited by the local consumers' committee.

Members of the American Legion committee passed a resolution of thanks for East, Crenshaw and McCaffrey of the commission. On the Legion committee were Don Helwig, Leslie Kimball, Brayton Norton, C. R. Pettit and Harold Reed.

Thrills Aplenty at Air Meet

The ninth annual all-American air maneuvers at Miami, Fla., opened with lots of thrills for everyone. Here is a good example, Mike Murphy's takeoff in his plane from the top of an automobile while traveling at a high rate of speed. (Associated Press photo.)

ALONG THE COUNTY'S WATERFRONT

Because right now it's all-important, first comes the weather. Breezes or no breezes—that's bothering hundreds of yacht enthusiasts today, as the first day of the mid-winter regatta draws to a close on the harbor, and enthusiastic pilots prepare for another series of races tomorrow.

Weather experts adopt a "yes and no" attitude on the matter, but finally agree that perhaps there won't be any more rain. Perhaps we'll have some nice, sunny weather, with more or less gentle winds. Some blustery breezes would be more to the liking of yacht clubs of the coast, are taking part.

Races were scheduled to start at noon, and will continue through tomorrow. Enthusiastic rope-pullers report there are still a few folks left on the coast who think that water is for washing behind their ears and gazing purposes, instead of to sail on, but they claim that all others will line the banks of the bay tomorrow to watch the fun. And it will be fun, too. From the larger races, which will rub elbows, almost as they settle all sorts of arguments within the confines of the harbor, to the half-pints and snowbirds, it'll be a thrilling day. Even if you don't like boats, much, and shudder every time you look at water, c'mon down anyway, and learn a few things!

Little bits of news from Steve Smith, who sells rope 'n other things for boats. Steve shyly offered a bit of information that'll make feminine hearts do a barrel roll, or something.

Bing Crosby, the guy what sings, may be at Balboa Monday! That's the rumor, anyway. Because Paramount's going to start shooting some sort of a sea picture at Balboa Yacht club, and maybe Bing'll be there. Interesting, what?

Speaking of fluttering fens, here's another one to bother the gals a bit. Directory Sam Dawson has finally brought forth to a waiting world his yacht registry. Contained therein are a number of things, but the one most likely to interest the gals is that one boat permanently moored in the harbor is registered to one James Cagney, of Beverly Hills.

She's the "Martha," 65-foot schooner. Moored at Balboa Yacht club. Directions for finding the yacht club can be obtained at The Journal office!

While we're on the subject of actors, some might be interested in the news that Preston Foster has sold one of his boats. "Gee Getta," 26-foot Dodge speedboat, has been purchased by K. W. Reimers of Jackson's Hot Wyo. Foster, however, still retains his famed "Zoe III."

Editors and Their Opinions

A digest of ideas from Orange county newspapers, reprinted as being of interest to readers of The Journal.

HOME LABOR ONLY

(Brea Progress)

No bond should be voted in Orange county for the elaborate system of dams, for alleged water conservation, until an agreement is reached that only Orange county men will be employed in the various projects, it has been held heretofore, when the matter was under discussion, that there is not sufficient labor in the county to do the job. This may be true, if an attempt is made to do all the jobs at once, but if they are tackled singly, then there is enough Orange county labor. What's the difference if the several jobs do extend over a several years period, if home labor only is used? The people of the county have waited 40 years now for this protection, which it is claimed these dams will give. Another two or three years, spent in building them, will make no difference. Throughout Orange and other counties right now are numerous Works Progress and other federal projects, where men from Los Angeles and other points outside home counties are being employed. This is true, notwithstanding that anties have been given that only home labor will be employed. Home labor should demand that it gets all the work if the proposed county water bonds are voted.

County Ed. Gets Tired; No Column Today

There will be no "Brickdust" column in today's paper. The county editor is tired of writing columns on Saturday, anyway, and besides this new harbor column should be enough, shouldn't it?

If anyone doesn't like this arrangement, they can write the column themselves. It'll be printed! So, unless hordes of angry and disappointed subscribers arise and demand a column every Saturday, there won't be any more. Thank goodness!

Old Board Walk to Bite Dust

NEWPORT-BALBOA. — Soon the last of the old boardwalk will be gone, was the good news being passed around today among oceanfront residents in the vicinity of the Newport pier who long have been admiring the cement sidewalk down Balboa way and wondering when their turn would come.

Decision to continue without delay progressive tearing up of the old plank, termed hazardous by citizens and city attorney alike, and replacement with cement paving was approved by the city council at a meeting Wednesday night.

Revision of the division of cost due to new WPA regulations will increase the city's share of the expense, City Engineer R. L. Patterson told the council, but the additional expense would be more than offset by the greater safety secured, City Attorney Roland Thompson advised. Vote to forward the work was registered by the council.

Revised plans and specifications of the new Newport harbor district sewer system were submitted by the city engineer and approved with instructions to City Clerk Frank Rinehart to advertise for bids. Bids on the original plans were considered too high and rejected at a recent meeting. The revised plans are of an improved, not a reduced system, the council was informed.

Approval of a beach erosion survey in conjunction with the Orange county coastline communities was repeated by a motion of the council.

VISIT IN CHULA VISTA

MIDWAY CITY. — Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pryor, John Pryor and Mrs. M. A. Damron were guests of Mrs. Pryor's nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ruud at Chula Vista on Christmas day.

CHAPTER I. A tense group huddled about the receiving set in the home office of the British Wireless Marine at Marconi House in London. The air was heavy with smoke. Suddenly the operator, his lined face and blue-tinted eyes telling of long unrelied hours at his instrument, listened more intently.

Then he looked up. "Only a freighter ship, with nothing new to report." "Ask for weather indications. See if it's clearing," a lean tall Scot ordered.

A few seconds later, the operator's bloodless lips interpreted "Wind of typhoon intensity sweeping from China sea across Luzon, traveling east to northwest toward latitudes 140 and 165, east longitude 18 north."

"That ends it. There's little further hope!" For 12 hours the radio and the news wires of the world had been racing their tangle of dots and dashes to the eager world. Linda Marshall, intrepid girl ace of America, who had been dispensing with continents as if they were tiny squares on a patchwork quilt, in her solo round-the-world flight, was overdue at Honolulu from Guam. Lost over the Pacific!

"She should never have attempted the flight in the first place," an army official muttered. "Aye, it was madness for a girl to try alone," murmured the Scot, an official of the British Royal Air Force. "Poor little fool!"

Suddenly a young man sprang from his chair, where he had been sitting apart from the others. His face was pale under the tan that spoke of tropical suns. He was the only American present. His eyes flashed.

"Less than 500 years ago they called Columbus a fool!" The scorn of his voice cut through the room like a sharp knife. "Aye, lad, she's brave enough. Perhaps, after all, we're the fools to question!" It was Angus Kirkbrae, the Scot, whose family had been in shipping along the Clyde for generations and refused to try and understand why he had gone into the air service to become Vice Marshal of the R. A. F. instead of staying with the navy, for which he had originally trained and in which he might have been a rear admiral by now! "But," he added, "Columbus went over the sea with a fleet, not alone!"

"What one can do in the air, a squadron can emulate," the young man insisted stubbornly and, if there was a bite to the retort, the others could forgive. For Tommy drawn had the right to speak up. All his life he had dared things others feared to do—had succeeded where others failed.

Linda Marshall—what a triumphal flight hers had been since leaving New York! Trinidad... Buenos Aires... Backing on her route to cross the southern Atlantic via the Cape Verde islands to Dakar... eventually to London.

From there, Paris... Rome... Constantinople... Bagdad... then Singapore... Batavia. From there to Australia, and then zooming north again via the Celebes and the Philippines, to Hongkong and Shanghai, and thence to Guam.

That far, the links had been forged perfectly without serious mishap. Linda was an international heroine. That was yesterday! Today, she was a fool for trying.

Throughout the entire flight, everything had been done to promote safety. Her plane, equipped with a special radio service, had automatically recorded her position once each hour over a special wave length. Between times, she had cut in with detailed reports. The flight wasn't a stunt, but an attempt to advance aviation.

Now, it seemed, she had failed. While the group at Marconi House in London, and others like them all over the world, waited with waning hope for further news, U. S. navy planes were being sent out from Honolulu to go zooming over the Pacific in search for her silver-and-red plane, "The Sky Crab."

A strange name, that! The whim of a girl born in July to use her astrological sign as the insignia of her flight—its strange symbol, a large circle enclosing two smaller circles, painted upon the wings. If the real reason for that name and symbol had only been known!

Tommy drew had a vague inkling, but even he couldn't be sure. With earphones pressed close to his head as a special gesture to a strange request, he hoped to catch one slight clue from the ether—a signal no one else could read—but so far it had not come.

Only a confirmation weather report came over the air. Major Burdick Whitaker of the R. A. F. informally known as Buddy, spoke up.

"That ends it, Tommy. You can't expect rescue planes, or steamers either, to cruise about in a typhoon area. She's licked now, even if she has managed to weather it so far."

He strode across the room to Tommy, rested his arm across the other's shoulder, bent his head and whispered, "Buck up, old chap! This was a grand girl, even if she did jilt you at the altar, as one might say."

That wasn't tactful of Buddy. He realized it. But he and Tommy knew each other too well to mince words, no matter how cruel the truth might be. Fact was fact. Linda didn't have the ghost of a chance now to get through, and she had jilted Tommy.

As if he were understanding, the others in the room left these two alone in their corner—Tommy, who had known Linda Marshall since childhood and had just recently discovered his love for her too late; and Buddy, who owed his life to Tommy and tried not to hate the girl who had hurt his friend. Deep in his heart, he had admired her pluck for going ahead with the solo flight she had begun rather than stopping in London to marry Tommy, who had been waiting there for her.

Suddenly Tommy looked up. "I'm going after her," he said. "What good can you do racing across Europe and Asia? By the time you get there—well..." Tommy's eyes flashed dangerously. "Once they told me I was mad to go looking for Buddy Whitaker, he'd not be here. He disappeared over the Island of Arcticos."

A sudden signal of deep understanding passed between the two men. Buddy's fingers tightened on Tommy's shoulder as he said: "How should I start? I can be ready in an hour... I'm on leave, you know."

"No, Buddy. You're married. Your wife..." "I rather imagine she'll understand my wanting to go. If it weren't for you, I'd not be here."

Tommy's eyes narrowed. "Come on, then! Get your gear together. Be at my dig in an hour. My plane's at Croydon."

They slipped out of the room quietly and stood waiting for the elevator. "Tommy," said Buddy cautiously, "off the record, just what's behind all this?"

Tommy eyed Buddy sharply, then said slowly: "I know this much—Linda's disappearance over the Pacific is actually the most carefully planned detail of her whole flight around the world... Hush! Here comes the elevator."

Neither saw the lean figure of Kirkbrae, hidden in the shadows, turn and re-enter the room they had left.

Candle Scrolls Tell Date of February Nuptials at Family Christmas Dinner

North Dakota To Be Their Home

Choosing as her wedding day the 41st anniversary of her parents, Miss L. Mae Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Johnson of 1631 West Eighth street, was united in marriage with Alvin Wessels of Jamestown, N. D., in an early morning ceremony Wednesday.

The rites were read at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. O. Scott McFarland of the First Presbyterian church, with the home of the bride's parents as the setting, and a wedding breakfast followed.

Ferns and palms banked the fireplace as a background for the service, which was read by candlelight, and the bride wore a smart navy blue knit dress with contrasting accessories of a wine shade. Her corsage was of gardenias and French roses.

Guests at the wedding and the breakfast were the bride's parents, her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Johnson of Orange; and a sister, Mrs. Edith Bradley, and her daughter, Hazel Bradley.

Later in the day, the couple left for Catalina Island, planning to return for a Christmas dinner with the family at the Johnson home here. They will return to Jamestown, which is also the bride's former home, in time for Mr. Wessels to resume his work with the Westland Oil company, Feb. 1. Both he and his bride are graduates of Jamestown schools and the latter of Jamestown College.

After graduation, she taught for several years in the schools of Millerton, N. D., resigning last June when she came to Santa Ana to live with her family.

During the week before the wedding, the bride was honored at a shower planned by a group of her friends and relatives. Inviting a few to a three-course luncheon and a day of quilting at her home, she had a pleasant surprise in the afternoon when a dozen of her other friends joined them for an informal afternoon, bringing with them a lovely blanket as a pre-nuptial shower gift.

The quilters included Mesdames Jacob Danner, W. H. Hartman, and Roy E. Johnson of Orange, Mrs. Milo Allen of Garden Grove, Mrs. Albert Cranston and Mrs. W. H. Hutton of Anaheim, and the Mesdames L. B. Kientz, Cynthia Davis, Sophia Boles, and Christine Leonard of Santa Ana.

Those who joined the party in the afternoon, which came to a close in the serving of ice cream and cake and coffee, after an hour or so of guessing games and contests, were Mrs. Martin Danner of Orange, Mrs. L. E. Barry of Huntington Beach, the Mesdames W. B. Hutton, Victor Hupp, Fred Miller, Wayne West, G. B. Darnell, Walter Schwanitz, and Ennelt Lambert, of Miss Marian Leonard, all of Santa Ana; and Mrs. Lambert's two house guests, her mother, Mrs. Katherine Brabitt, and her aunt, Mrs. Mary Sheker, who arrived recently from Fort Dodge, Ia.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS CHANGE DATE

Henceforth, Santa Ana Bethel of Job's Daughters will meet on the second and fourth Wednesdays, instead of the corresponding Tuesdays, it was decided at its regular meeting this week.

It was the first session over which Miss Charlotte McCausland, new honored queen, has presided, and she appointed as committees for the next meeting, on Jan. 43, Miss Eunice Filer, Miss Natalie Ely and Miss Esther Belle Christian, refreshments, and Miss Betty Hartman, Miss Elizabeth Wimbler and Miss Eileen Gibbs, decorations.

A Christmas party, with a tree, gifts and refreshments of popcorn balls, candy canes and apples completed the evening, and those members with birthday anniversaries in November and December were presented with candy handkerchiefs. Those so honored included the Misses Mildred Flier, Jeanette Bradley, Elizabeth Wimbler, Betty Jean Koster, Joanna Overman, Lenore McFarren, Mary Alice Russey, Carolyn Rogers, Martha Horseman, Eileen Gibbs, Audrey Johnson, Marjorie Ball and Beverly Nick.

HAS CHRISTMAS EVE BIRTHDAY

Little Miss Martha Horseman, who celebrated her 14th birthday anniversary on Christmas eve, was the center of attraction at the Christmas celebration of her family yesterday.

The tree was divested of its many presents early in the morning, with a turkey dinner and blazing birthday cake being enjoyed later by her brother, Robert; her grandmother, Mrs. Cora Millikan, and her parents, the E. H. Horsemans, 2009 Greenleaf street. The family expects Mrs. Horseman's brother, R. V. Millikan, Mrs. Millikan and Donald and Richard to arrive next week from Kansas City. They will visit in Santa Ana for a month.

Oh, Look What Brother's Doing!

They know there's a Santa Claus—do Jack and Alice Priscilla Harvey and little Miss Margaret Walker—because look who they found under the tree Christmas morning at the Albert Harvey home on Louise street. Jack and his baby sister got up real early in the morning in hopes that they might catch a glimpse of the old white whiskered man, and Margaret dashed over from home, thinking she might catch him there to thank him for the new doll and buggy he left at her house—but not a whisker did they find. Just tops 'n' trains 'n' candy 'n' all sorts of beautiful things he had left behind on his hurried visit of the night before. Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Walker of Valencia street.

Anniversary Marked On Christmas

Christmas fifty years ago had a double meaning for a young couple who chose that day to exchange their vows of marriage in a ceremony at Lawrence, Mass.

Yesterday, surrounded by their children and grandchildren and their many friends in Southern California, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sauermann, of East Seventeenth street, held a three-fold celebration in observance of the Golden Wedding anniversary.

Starting with a dinner at noon at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Patton, at 1037 West Walnut street, over which the celebrants themselves presided as hosts, the entire day and evening was given over to the celebration.

Gathering for the family Christmas dinner were the Rev. Mr. G. C. Schmidt, pastor of the First Evangelical church, to which the pair belong, and Mrs. Schmidt; daughter, Esther, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kubitz, Mr. and Mrs. Patton and children, Ben, Jr., and Marie Virginia; Dr. and Mrs. Walter Sauermann and children, Walter, Jr., Herbert, Jeanette, and Lucille.

In the afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock, the children of the couple held open house at the Vogt home, 706 East Sixth street, some 50 friends of the Sauermanns calling during those hours.

In the receiving line with the "bride and bridegroom" were her three daughters, Mrs. Vogt, Mrs. Kubitz and Mrs. Patton, the bride wearing a lovely blue and rose changeable matelasse gown. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Walter Sauermann, poured tea and her granddaughter, Miss Vogt, coffee, at a pretty table spread with lace cloth, and centered with gold tapers and blue delphinium. Lovely bouquets sent by friends added to the charm of the rooms where the guests gathered.

In the evening, the family all gathered again at the Sauermann home for an informal buffet supper and Christmas tree, bringing the happy day to a close. Two members of the family circle, Mrs. Emil Schrader of Monmouth, Ore., and Mrs. Albert Brock of Sacramento, daughters of the Sauermanns, were unable to be present for the celebration, but their greetings added to the completeness of this fiftieth wedding day. The Sauermanns have been residents of Santa Ana for 24 years.

LAS FELICITAS CLUB HAS LOVELY PARTY

Christmas games and stories around a blazing fire in the fireplace were the delight of Las Felicitas club members and husbands who gathered Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harris, 511 West Nineteenth street, for their Christmas party and exchange of gifts.

At midnight, the hostess served her plum pudding with whipped cream and coffee, seating her guests at one long table spread with a lace cloth. The centerpiece, three snowfingering poinsettia blossoms in a shallow bowl, placed on a long mirror which was surrounded by tiny red candles, was a thing of beauty, and all other appointments were in keeping with its Yuletide theme.

Prizes in the Christmas games were won by Guy Penn, Howard Taylor, and Mr. Harris. Those enjoying the informal evening were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Penn, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Braden, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Raymond of Anaheim, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schwaborn of Laguna Beach, and the host and hostess.

The club members will meet next Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Schwaborn home.

ner on Christmas at their home at 628 North Broadway. Their guests on the happy occasion were Robert Parker and Miss Alice Parker from Laguna, and Dr. Mary E. Wright.

WITH MRS. SAFLEY

Only one member of Mrs. G. R. Safley's family was absent from her hospitable all-day Christmas celebration yesterday, and that was a last minute disappointment when her son, Walter Hammond, was hospitalized for the holidays.

His wife and son Tommy, however, were present, as were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hammond (another son) and little Joanne, from Billings, Mont., and Mrs. M. B. Homan, a daughter. Mrs. Homan's daughter, and son-in-law, the Roger Hearnings, were guests from Alhambra, while Mr. and Mrs. Don McDonald, (Marvel Hammond) and little son Ron live in Santa Ana.

Completing the number that enjoyed the huge turkey and happy day were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bone and George Trent, old friends from Brainerd, Minn., who are wintering in southern California.

CHAT AWHILE WITH BETTY

By BETTY COX

Well, it's all over. Christmas is something like a wedding ceremony—you get ready for it for weeks, and then in five minutes it is all over. Remember those days and days of wondering what to buy and worrying whether it would please or not, then the hours of wrapping and tying? And in less time than it took to put it under the tree the wrappings and ribbons were torn off and thrown into the discard and the present proved to be "just what I needed," after all.

Judging by all the happy family reunions we heard about in our calling earlier this week, this must have been a Christmas of Christmases. We still have so many dinners to tell you about that we are going to devote an additional column to Christmas stories next Monday.

Notes at random: Consternation reigned at junior college recently when Jules LaParra, from France not so very long ago, turned in an examination paper written entirely in French.

Now we hear of white poinsettias. Red ones were the only ones we knew until a month ago, when a pink one poked up over our horizon, and now a white one. We still like the red ones, though.

A Santa Ana diamond ring, we hear, went to San Francisco this Christmas, on the third finger on the left hand of Miss Ruth Berg, charming San Gabriel teacher who has been a frequent visitor at the C. H. Vorce home here. The card said, "From Bill" (Carl Vorce, Jr.). Harold Dale, Jr., aged 20, became intrigued with a Betty Boop doll on his Christmas tree yesterday and pulled it over trying to reach her; and then when everything was right-side-up again he went right over and did it again. The D. M. Peters' guest at Christmas dinner had the unique experience of picking ripe bananas off a tree in the Peters' backyard. Potatoes from Washington, celery from Utah, apples from Oregon and a turkey from California—that's the dinner, or part of the dinner, the Linsenbard family had yesterday at the family home.

Only flaw in the ointment out at Hugh Plumb's Christmas dinner was the color of the drinking water. Thinking to give it the right touch for the Yule season, the boys, decided to color the ice cubes red and green. The idea was good, but the cubes melted and the blending of red and green in the water made anything but an appetizing color.

PHILATHEANS IN YULE PARTY

Philathea class of the First Presbyterian church had its Christmas party Tuesday evening in the lovely new home of Mrs. Milo K. Tedstrom, 2215 North Flower street, the rooms of which were gay with holly and Christmas greenery and a beautiful Christmas tree.

Miss Marjorie Randall entertained with a Christmas reading, and another delightful feature of the evening was the gift exchange. Mrs. O. Scott McFarland, teacher of the class, had a surprise for the members, presenting each with a hand carved paper knife, the work of Chinese Christians who, before their conversion, had been carvers of idols. Mrs. McFarland had obtained the knives through her sister, who is a missionary in China. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Tedstrom at the class party were the Mesdames J. H. Criddle, Dale Griggs, Hugh K. Hougham, Mary Snyder, Stanley Palmer, and Everett Hunter.

Shower Also Surprise Of Day

Todd - Tedford Rites To Be Solemnized At Laguna

Thoughts of an approaching wedding were combined with Christmas festivities yesterday when Miss Dora Tedford, whose betrothal to Raymond Todd of Orange was announced at a garden tea late last summer, chose the family dinner party yesterday as the occasion for revealing the date of the coming nuptials.

The Christmas dinner was held at the home of Mrs. E. G. Huntington, grandmother of the bride-to-be, at 907 South Main street, where poinsettias and lovely Christmas greenery created a pretty setting for the gathering.

Tiny scrolls tied to candle favors at the places told the news, announcing Feb. 21 as the date for the rites, which will be solemnized at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the Community Presbyterian church in Laguna Beach.

This surprise was only the beginning of a series of surprises which filled the day, exchange of gifts among the members of the group bringing many happy ones, and the climax arriving with the presentation of a shower of miscellaneous bridal gifts to Miss Tedford.

Participating in this especially happy Christmas day were the bride-to-be and her mother, Mrs. T. F. Tedford, and sister, Miss Edith Tedford; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Slaback and sons, Lecl and Stanley, and daughter, Lella; Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Ross and son, Raymond, Jr., and daughter, Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gerken and son, Jimmie, all of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jackson and sons, Leland and Donald, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Horan and son, Richard, of Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Huntington of Chino, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Huntington and daughter DeAnn of Hollywood, L. M. Huntington of San Gabriel, Mamie Vesey of Chino, and the hostess, Mrs. Huntington.

ROWLANDS HAVE TWO DAY FETE

The Rowland family experienced a very happy two days of Christmas celebration, with a supper party on Christmas eve, at the home of Mayor F. C. Rowland home. The three daughters of the home and their families were all present to share in the fun of the Christmas tree.

They included Miss Barbara Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Wilson and daughter, Bobby Jo, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hopkins and children, Ruth and Harvey, Hugh, and Mrs. Rowland's mother, Mrs. C. F. Crose.

On Christmas day, the same group gathered at the Rowland home, with the addition of Dr. and Mrs. Elliott Rowland, Miss Betty Rowland, Terry Stephenson, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Carlie, and with the exception of the Wilsons, who dined with Mr. Wilson's parents, the B. O. Wilsons, and their daughter, Norma.

The Rowland family party particularly feted Miss Betty and Mr. Stephenson, whose wedding will occur this evening.

TUSTIN PEOPLE HAVE YULE TREE

Pythian Sisters and Knights of Pythias of Tustin gave their annual Christmas tree and Santa Claus party Monday evening for residents of that community.

Mrs. Harry Mathews presented the program, featuring the primary chorus of Tustin grammar school in three numbers; readings by Joyce Halford, Marilyn Wilson, Marilyn Perozzi, Don Hawkins, and June Crawford; a solo by Alexander; tap dance by Dick Rummels; cowboy song by Bobby Reihl, accompanied by Billy Reihl; songs by Dorothy Lou Kimball; piano solos by Audrey Harrell; duets by Mary Lou Leinberger and Mary Jean Parks; and Santa Claus and a Christmas tree, with boxes of candy for the children. Mrs. Mathews and Mrs. Leinberger were accompanists.

NICKEY FAMILY TO CELEBRATE

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Nickey gathered their family for an old-fashioned Christmas in their home at 519 Bush street yesterday afternoon.

Those sharing in the turkey dinner were Mrs. Genevieve Spencer and John Vernon and Virginia Spencer of Eagle Rock, Mrs. E. B. Trago with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowler, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nickey of Monterey Park, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin F. Nickey, Jr., and Franklin III and Calvin, Walter Congdon of Capistrano, and Mr. and Mrs. Al Lindsay of Ventura. The Spencers and Lindsays will all spend the week-end in the Nickey home.

'I Will Take Heed to My Ways, That I Sin Not With My Tongue, Lord.'

ANNIVERSARY OF CHURCH IS OBSERVED

United Presbyterian is Oldest Church Within Southern California

The 60th anniversary of the United Presbyterian church's organization in Santa Ana will be celebrated tomorrow. It is the oldest United Presbyterian church in Southern California.

Special services both morning and evening will commemorate the congregation's organization on Dec. 26, 1876, according to an announcement made today by the Rev. Albert Eakin Kelly, pastor. An anniversary communion service, with the pastor preaching on "The Garden of the Unforgotten" and music by a vested choir will be held at 10:45 a. m., while at 7 p. m. will be the official anniversary service.

Synod Greetings
The presence of local and visiting dignitaries will make it an auspicious occasion, with greetings from the Santa Ana Ministerial association, of which Dr. Kelly is president, given by the Rev. O. Scott McFarland of the First Presbyterian church, and greetings from the presbytery of Los Angeles by Dr. Ralph Atkinson, superintendent of missions of the synod.

Col. S. H. Finley, for 50 years a member of the church, will address the congregation on behalf of his fellow fifty-year members, while the highlight of the services will come with Dr. Kelly's anniversary message, "The Past Speaks to Today and Tomorrow."

When the United Presbyterian church of Santa Ana was formed 60 years ago, it met at the home of James McFadden, who, with J. Presley Thompson and William B. Hall, was ordained an elder of the church.

Church History
The first church building was erected in 1878 on a lot donated by James H. Fruit, at the corner of Fourth and Mortimer streets. Many of the subscriptions were paid in labor by church members, and on Nov. 10, 1878, the building was dedicated, with the dedication prayer given by the Rev. D. S. McHenry, stated supply pastor, and the dedication sermon preached by the Rev. Dr. M. M. Gibson of San Francisco.

Included in the small congregation at this time were the 15 church members, Mr. and Mrs. James McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. David A. Thompson, Mrs. Maggie Stewart, Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, Miss Mary Taylor, Finley McFadden, and Thomas Blair.

In 1911, increased membership caused the Rev. W. L. C. Samson, who, as third pastor, followed the Rev. T. J. C. Webster and the Rev. M. M. Kilpatrick, to urge a larger church edifice. After the purchase of a new lot on the northwest corner of Sixth and Bush streets, building was commenced, and on May 22, 1912, the present building was dedicated.

Growth Recorded
From 1914 to 1923, the Rev. J. G. Kennedy served as pastor. He was followed by Dr. W. H. McPeak, who, in 1926, officiated at the golden anniversary services of the church, and remained until 1933, when Dr. Kelly filled the pulpit.

The church has grown from its original membership of 15 to a congregation of 400. Among its most important and active branches are the Bible school, of which John A. Henderson is superintendent.

The Women's Missionary society has also been prominent since its organization in 1885 by Mrs. J. C. Harvey. At its 40th anniversary held on April 15, 1925, 38 charter members were present, Mrs. George Reymann, Mrs. John McFadden, Mrs. Juliette Smith, Miss Agnes Safely, Mrs. J. P. Thompson and Mrs. Sarah Skiles.

LIST SPEAKERS FOR CONCLAVE
The Rev. A. C. Crill, Buffalo, will be one of the special speakers at the three-day Bible convention to be held at the Church of the Nazarene, on West Fifth and Barton streets Dec. 29, 30 and 31, it was announced today.

The convention is sponsored by the "Association of Holiness Churches of Orange County."

The Rev. M. B. Bussey, "The Walking Bible," is also to be a daily speaker on the program.

Memory Hour to Be Postponed

The Musical Memory hour program which is given every Sunday afternoon at Melrose Abbey, will be omitted Dec. 27, owing to the many other musical festivities that are given during the week of Christmas.

However an interesting program will be presented the following Sunday afternoon, Jan. 3, featuring one of the prominent church choirs of Santa Ana.

Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Jesus Rides in Triumph into Jerusalem.—All four of the Gospels tell of Jesus' triumphant entry into Jerusalem, an event which recalls the prophecy in Zechariah 9:9, in the Old Testament. "And when they came, saying unto him, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her; loose them, and bring them unto you. And if any man say unto you, Why do ye thus? ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them. All this was done, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophet, saying, Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass. And the disciples went, and did as Jesus commanded them, and brought the ass, and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and they set Him thereon. And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and strewed them in the way. And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the Highest."—Matthew 21:1-11. M. E. CHURCH GIVES BACH PROGRAM

Two exceptional treats are in store for those who attend tomorrow's services at the First Methodist Episcopal church of Santa Ana.

In the morning Dr. E. J. Inwood, for four years pastor here, will preach, while at the "Everybody's Vespers" there will be a special musical program under the direction of Halstead McCormack.

Leading the church choir and the well known Cecilia Singers, he will present a program of Bach, featuring for the first time in Santa Ana the famous Cantata No. 147, "The Songs of Rejoicing Be Raised" and "Christmas Oratorio." The cantata is extremely difficult to obtain in the United States and music for the local endeavor was sent from London. It opens with a florid chorus of the contrapuntal type for which Bach was famous, and features solos and recitatives for tenor, soprano and bass, and a fine contralto and tenor duet.

The "Christmas Oratorio" is ranked among the masterpieces of the great German composer, and typifies the Christmas story in recitative, aria and chorus.

For the Bach works are presented, the choir will open the vesper with an Introit, "O Come, O Come, Immanuel," and will sing "The Angels' Song" by Tschernikov, a Russian Christmas number, and "While by My Sheep I Watched at Night" by Jungst, assisted by an antiphonal quartet consisting of Elizabeth Morgan, Laura Joiner, Gustav Koehler, and Josh Brady. Following the Bach numbers, the vesper will close with the following: A double quartet—Irma Rutter, Elizabeth Morgan, LaVerne Van Wyk, Laura Joiner, Mark Hare, Gustav Koehler, H. F. Korny and Josh Brady—singing a liturgical cantata by the Canadian composer, Healey Willan, entitled "Hodie Christus Natus Est"; the combined organizations singing the "Carol of the Russian Children," by Harvey Gaul, and the closing section of the H. Alexander Mathews cantata, "The Story of Christmas," consisting of "Sleep Holy Babe," a contralto solo and chorus, and "Awake, Put on Thy Strength, O Zion."

Cecil M. Aker, D. D., pastor. 9:30 a. m., Sunday school. 11 a. m., morning worship. 7:00 p. m., evening worship. 6 p. m., Leagues and Fellowship.

THORN in the FLESH

By GLENN L. THORNE

Soon the decorated and gaily-lighted tree will be denuded of its glittering ornaments and dragged out into the alley to be hauled away. Christmas day has come and gone for those who gave it a mere material meaning, reckoned only in terms of gifts received, or in besting Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So.

But to others, Christmas day may have come, but it is not gone. They are those who entered into the true Christmas spirit—a spirit of love—and come away with a stronger love, their hearts having been strangely warmed and re-kindled. And the warmth of that love, the real spirit of Christmas, will continue in days to come.

We have relived the birth of Christ, why should we not now strive to exemplify His life?

Been thinking of the many people who attended church the past few Sundays in general, and how many were present when the exercises were given and little Johnny and Mary spoke their pieces.

We paid tribute to the King and worshipped Him and His birth at Christmas services, and yesterday, serving Him daily, and worshiping Him daily, and attending regular church services tomorrow?

Calvary Church Services on Radio

Topics of the sermons to be delivered by the Rev. Frank E. Lindgren, pastor of the Calvary Church of Santa Ana, during the services to be held tomorrow in the auditorium of the Ebell club at 625 French street, are announced as follows:

11 a. m.: "The Abundance of Grace."

7 p. m.: "Building on Sand."

Both services will be broadcast from KVOE.

Several years ago, Joe E. Brown worked in a circus with the trick horse Gypsy that he rides in "Polo Joe." (No, the horse didn't remember him.)

Vinton county is one of the poorest in Ohio. It has no large cities and much of the land is hilly.

Nickel-Game Logic

DISTRICT ATTORNEY W. F. MENTON is serious. He doesn't intend to have any monkey business about these nickel marble "games," so he is calling a meeting early next week of all law enforcement chiefs in Orange county to "lay down the law" about the machines.

The machines are illegal if they pay out in cash, but not if they pay out in free games, he has ruled.

If the police of the various cities intend to enforce the district attorney's ruling, as the sheriff already has indicated he plans to do in the unincorporated areas of Orange county, they shouldn't have much trouble digging up evidence, for where they discover a machine that boasts a lot of customers, there they will find a machine that is paying off in cash—or a merchant in whose place of business the "game" is located, doing the paying off for the machine.

That's logical—even if the people who play them aren't logical—for marble games that pay off only in "free games" will die a natural death for lack of patronage. The people who play them are not donating a flock of nickels just to see what hole the little ball will fall into, if any. Such fun is too expensive. They play them on the obscure hope that the ball will end up in a 40-to-1 hole, thereby enabling them to make a cleaning.

But they might as well be playing for fun, because the machines seldom return the player's investment. They just aren't built that way.

That presidential committee on farm tenancy must mean business. At the last minute before the meeting a tenant farmer was added to its membership.

It Won't Be Long Now

ALMOST any day now we may be reading headlines that shout of another ghastly war under way in Europe.

Ever since the civil imbroglio began in Spain, Fascist Italy and Germany have been casting insinuations against Socialist France and Communist Russia; and France and Russia have retaliated with potent accusations against Italy and Germany. All over the Spanish situation, of course, with each side warning the other against aiding the Fascist and ultra-liberal groups that have been tearing at each other's throats in the southwest European republic during the past few months.

Now come reports from Paris that Germany is considering a request by the Fascist general, Francisco Franco, to send 60,000 Nazi soldiers to the aid of the Spanish rebels if they are to win the war. And it would be just like Adolf Hitler to grant Franco's urgent plea for aid.

If and when that request is granted, you may start a little guessing contest with yourself as to the date when most of Europe will shoulder arms and begin target practice. Our guess is that you won't have very long to wait.

Well, folks, it's about time for us to start receiving unstamped envelopes through the mail again. Congress will soon be in session.

A Date to Be Remembered

TOMORROW marks the 114th anniversary of the birth of a man to whom the world owes a great debt of gratitude. He is Louis Pasteur, the French chemist whose struggle in the face of terrific odds to make the world realize that germs are deadlier than bullets, provides one of the most intriguing stories in the history of medical science.

His fight to win recognition for the merits of his serums designed to counteract various types of infection is one about which every child should be urged to read. To him is credited development of serums for immunization against rabies and anthrax.

Application of his discoveries to the reduction of infant mortality rates, however, is a triumph on which the spotlight is so seldom turned. He was among the first to insist on sterilization of equipment used in the delivery of babies. His experiments which proved that harmful germs in the wines of France could be destroyed, found their greatest employment in this country in protecting the milk supply by what is known as pasteurization.

Dec. 27, therefore, can be considered one of the most important dates in the calendar of human progress.

Princess Elizabeth of England is said to be almost as popular as Shirley Temple. That's enough in itself—why be a queen?

Figures Tell the Story

BUSINESS and industry in the nation, including Santa Ana of course, enjoyed Christmas this year.

It needed but one glance at the throngs of shoppers and busy stores during the week before Christmas to realize that business was better here this holiday season than in any year since the recent depression began.

Bank clearings tell the story for the nation. For the week ending Dec. 23, reported Dun and Bradstreet, clearings in 22 principal cities totaled $7,762,668,000, the highest level since Oct. 8, 1931. This represented an increase of more than 69 per cent over clearings of $4,589,150,000 in the same five-day week last year.

Those figures speak very plainly. They say the depression finally has been conquered.

The Duke of Windsor ranks as the most generous giver of the Christmas season. He gave his brother a throne.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

The farewell of a letter is always interesting. I glance at it before reading the text. To introduce Bob Davmates Bob Dav- himself "Ever Thine," Roy Howard, "Faithfully Yours," Irving Cobb, "Yours Mightily" and the late Ray Long, "Yours to a Whisker."

Today I received a missive as carefully etched as a steel engraving which closed with the formal "Respectfully Yr. Obedt. Servant, etc." It was filled with gracious yet dignified phrasing. One knew instinctively it was penned by a gentleman graced with courtesy. A Virginian, huh!

Personal correspondence is left largely today to brisk secretaries who so often develop a sing-song style. They send out the No. 6 reply to the No. 6 type. Two great industrial leaders answer all letters from friends themselves in their own handwriting.

Everybody especially enjoyed letters from the late Lincoln Steffens. He gave the hand-written answers as much a time and thought. They were the sort never thrown away. Montague Glass, I am told, put as much humor into his letters as in his fiction. For revival: The Art of Correspondence!

Tea Room High Jinks: She swept into a quiet tea room for dinner along Park avenue. A true patrician pattern of stately carriage, her coiffure feathered in silver sprays and clad in strictly tailored neatness. She inspected the menu through a dainty lorgnon, ordered two deep tumbled old-fashioned in a row and downed them in gulps. Between courses she read from a Love Confessions type of magazine. The hostess: "She is a weekly visitor, always putting on the same caper. It is her way of going on a toot, I suppose."

I like that depression Tin Can Triumph that came out of Vineland, N. J. It concerned a fairly prosperous citizen reduced to relief prospects but who would not have it that way. Instead he recouped his fortune by collecting tin cans. These he converted into a tin can palace that became a tourist show place. His only investment was $4 for a piece of swamp land. On this he built his castle of shiny minarets and gleaming spires, authentic ramparts, redoubts, salty ports, portcullis and draw-bridge. For his labors he now collects a fee from several hundred visitors a day and is not only making a living but has a sizeable bank account.

One of my favorite prowls in Paris is the infamous rue de Lappe, the alley-like aperture with a foot-wide sidewalk running about two blocks in the neighborhood of the Place Bastille. Either side is lined with Bals Mettelle, low celled drinking dens, opalescent with cigar smoke and filled with fumes of sour wine. Here the red sashed, velvet tanned Apache type dance with men and hard faced gisettes in plaid skirts dance together to the whine of accordions. The stranger is fairly safe in the rue de Lappe dives provided he minds his own business. Throat slittings and garrotings, which are many, are confined to denizens. Upstairs in the two storied brick structures lives screaming viragos, who seem to spend the night leaning out windows. It's a hideous layer of life among the human drags. It occurred today with something of a whim I had visited rue de Lappe many times, the Louvre but once.

In no highly competitive field have women made such headway the past few years as in column syndication. There have been feminine columns on special subjects—fashions, cuisine, housekeeping, love advice—but not until recently have the ladies expressed themselves after the masculine fashion on any subject. Syndicate chiefs say they have more confidence than male beginners. Among the practitioners widely syndicated are the two Roosevelts—Eleanor and Alice Longworth; Dorothy Thompson, Miss Robinson, Zoe Beckley and Helen Worden. Kathleen Norris has been belted with huge sums for a daily column and Dorothy Parker is constantly besieged by syndicate knock-knocks.

A little Dickensy man runs a notion shop near by on Lexington. A moon-faced gentleman with the genial glow of a Snow apple. I go to him each winter for round and fluted cakes of maple sugar, shipped from his reach of New England. He has a choice, neat about his speech—an unmistakable culture and he seems interested in selling his trifles. Today I learned he is a Harvard alumnus. "I rode a big wave to the backwater," he said. One would like to know his story. (Copyright, 1936)

SCIENCE NEWS A new invention, which helps cashiers spot counterfeit money, has been perfected. Bills inserted in a slot are illuminated by a powerful lamp and examined under a built-in magnifying glass. The machine is also capable of being used to scrutinize checks for evidence of forgery, alteration or raising of the amount.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's note: While Robert S. Allen covers Washington for his column, Drew Pearson is abroad doing a "Merry-Go-Round" of the European capitals. Following is a story from Rome.)

ROME—Not a line appears about it in the Italian press, but increasing Fascist supplies and men are pouring into Spain to aid the wobbling rebel forces of General Franco.

Best inside information is that at least 5000 Italians are now fighting in Franco's army, and their number is being increased steadily.

Troops are being paid 50 lire a day ($2.10), big money for an Italian soldier. There is no compulsion upon them to enlist, but with troops coming home from Ethiopia, and jobs scarce as hen's teeth in Italy, it is not hard to get recruits.

Officially, Italian troops are paid by General Franco. But that is mere bookkeeping. Actually they are paid with funds advanced Franco by Mussolini.

For if Franco fails, Mussolini gets one of the worst slaps-in-the-face of his entire foreign policy. He has already recognized Franco as the official government of Spain.

Note:—Franco's failure probably will not affect Mussolini's yen to get his hands permanently on the Balearic isles, strategic naval base in the western Mediterranean. Already the islands are occupied by a handful of Italian troops, and Spain will be too weakened—no matter who wins—to get them back.

BREAD AND CIRCUS

How Mussolini maintains his popularity in Italy was illustrated the other day when, without warning, he hopped off his motorcycle at Vittoria, the model settlement in the Turin hills which has transformed the Pontine marshes.

Mussolini has the habit of jumping about by plane or motorcycle to inspect this playground or that settlement, without any advance notice. This time nobody realized at first that it was the Iron Man of Italy who had arrived.

Going upstairs to one room in a model tenement, he looked it over carefully, pulled out a bureau drawer. His interest led the old woman whose home he had entered to complain about the bread. It was terrible, she said.

Mussolini demanded to see it. "This is much better bread than I ate during most of my life," he pronounced, "and there were months when I could not afford any bread at all."

DUCE VS. KING

Mussolini is one man who matches Franklin Roosevelt in his consummate ability to sense political situations.

Il Duce, popular as he is in Italy, is careful never to crab the lightning of the king. Victor Emmanuel, he knows, has the deep-rooted affection of the Italian people. He is a figurehead, a sentimental symbol, the oldest king in Europe, and they love him.

Therefore, when the king appears in public, Mussolini is careful to remain in the background. If there are any bows to be taken from balconies and Il Duce is present, he always stands behind. At the dinner given to Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary, Mussolini sat to one side. The king did the Smudging was resorted to this morning by fruit growers east of town to prevent a possible freeze, and as a result of this work, clouds of smoke hung over the top of the mountains all day, causing many to believe that a fire was raging. Justin M. Copeland, the weather man on Sycamore street, reports the lowest temperature recorded by his instrument as 28.

With only one oil lamp burning on his auto, Ernest Wood last night about 7:30 o'clock ran down a horse and buggy on North Main street, near Nineteenth, but fortunately the occupants, A. Wells of Orange, and E. E. Wells of Los Angeles and Miss E. D. Asmus of Pasadena, escaped without injury.

When the auto struck the buggy the horse was knocked down.

Among the many joyous events of Yuletide was a reunion Saturday evening at the home of S. C. King, 1515 North Main street. The most delightful feature was the celebration also of the birthday of the dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. S. A. King. Her crowning glory was the seven sons and daughters and 21 grandchildren, who gathered around her with love and many cheery greetings.

In addition, every important paper and press association pays Monsignor Pucco a flat retainer. It is estimated that his income averages about 28,000 lire per month.

So far as can be ascertained, this is collected with the knowledge of Vatican officials, though the money goes into his own pocket.

The system would be equivalent to giving Steve Early, White House secretary for the press, a complete monopoly of the news, then charging each newspaper and newspaperman for every scrap of information coming from the White House.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Newly appointed Bill Phillips is doing a magnificent job as American ambassador to Rome. With Rome one of the chief trouble spots of Europe, his job is as important—if not more so—than that of any other American ambassador.

The Italian press reacted favorably to President Roosevelt's Buenos Aires speech the day it was delivered. But the next day Mussolini's spokesman came out with an unfavorable diatribe claiming that Roosevelt had no business to give advice to Europe, whereupon all the papers chimed in with the same chorus. . . . When Ambassador Phillips presented his credentials to Mussolini, the Italian government furnished him with five golden coaches to escort his staff to the Palazzo Venezia. But Phillips had to foot the bill—about 1,000 lire apiece. . . . Roosevelt is extremely popular in Italy. But his re-election, strange to say, was heralded not as a triumph of democracy, but as an indication of fascist development in the United States. (Copyright, 1936)

JUDGE STUMP

Dear Judge: Why is it the choicest empty seats are always being held for someone else?

J. S. W. There's no answering that one, but don't let it worry you. Ordinarily the same thing is true of the electric chair. STUMP.

SPEAKING OF ABDICATION

(San Francisco News)

While the subject is still up we have in mind some abdications that might come in handy on this side of the Atlantic. For example: The cop who lets the speeder go tearing by, but stops traffic to indulge his sadistic vocabulary on some minor offender.

The employer who still says it's none of the public's business if he chooses to employ children and operate sweatshops and refuses to treat with recognized spokesmen of his workers' unions.

A few members of the government at Washington who are out of touch with New Deal principles, yet hang on in order to advance their personal ends.

The jingo who says that what this country needs is a good war, and the alleged patriot who says that what it needs is another Mussolini.

And you probably have some of your own.

FINES FOR NON-VOTERS

(San Diego Sun)

In Brazil, where it is estimated that a million qualified electors failed to vote at the last election, charges have been filed against a number of alleged "vote slackers." Under a new law, if they can't give good excuse for not voting, they may be fined as much as one cent, or about $80.

Even in our own recent record-breaking election we had many more than a million non-voters. But we don't yearn for a law like Brazil's. Why force a voice in running the government upon people who, having no intelligent interest in the issues, would go to the polls for no reason except to avoid being fined?

People in Washington Should Not Vote

MUCH COMMENT appears today on the pitiable political condition of half a million fellow-Americans, residing in the federal capital. They have never been given the privilege of the ballot. They picture themselves as a tax-crushed people, utterly deprived of a voice in determining their own affairs. "This," they say, "is taxation without representation, the very thing over which our valiant forebears waged mighty conflict for independence."

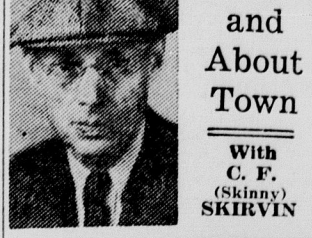

The constitution vests entire control over the federal district with the congress. Residents of the district exercise only such political action as the congress sees fit to grant. They do have voting power in such purely local matters as school elections. The congress may extend the voting privilege. But apparently there must be a constitutional amendment before the district would be entitled to membership in the house or the senate. And, of course, the states would never permit such equality with themselves. The district comprises some 60 square miles, about one-twentieth the size of Rhode Island, the smallest state, which, in turn, is less than one-two-hundredth the size of Texas, the largest state.

The framers of the constitution knew perfectly well what they were doing when they gave congress complete control over the federal district. They did not intend that residents in the district should have any political controls whatsoever. Those men were students of history. They knew from the bitter experience of nations that city mobs are dangerous to free institutions. They wished to discourage the group of a large

Around and About Town

With thoughtful thrift in mind Bill Moore sends me a Scotch greeting card, good for so many occasions that remailing is but a matter of industry, and the requisite postage stamp. On the occasion at point the Merry Christmas and Happy New Year designations are made, with the instructions to use pencil lightly so that erasures will not be difficult, and the card will answer for almost any other occasion, unless it's a funeral. Thanks, Bill for sending it while I'm alive.

And then there was the son who gave his father a year's subscription to "American Boy" for Christmas.

Circuitously word comes to me that Bill Smith is going into the chicken business as a side line. I don't know whether he got the idea, or the chickens from Bill Law or not, but Bill is a neighbor and that could have something to do with it. However, there is being erected on the Smith premises a modern, electric lighted chicken house so that it will be daylight all the time and the chickens can't do much loafing.

Well, it's over. If you do not like your tie you can change it. We have an obliging group of business men.

Not so long ago I was included in a dinner to which other friends had been summoned. The host, through an inadvertence or as a matter of social procedure, had ordered 10 dinners. Scotch friend to my left returned the suggestion that nine and one-half dinners would have been ample. The instruction made me so darned mad I ate a full meal and lived miserably for 10 hours after.

Now you will have time to pick up a 1937 calendar. It won't be much different than the one you are preparing to discard. It just keeps you up to date.

There was a lavish indulgence this season in Christmas trees. Patrolmen, whose business takes them in all parts of the city, report more trees than has heretofore come under their observation. They have been beautifully decorated, and send their message of good will and happiness to those who come within their notice. It is an appropriate recognition of the holidays, and indicative of better times.

Eddie Marble had a busy morning at the Breakfast club last Thursday. He wore song leader, calisthenic director, speaker extempo, and piano-fortissimo. When he got going he was hard to stop.

The year is closing with an appreciable uplift in real estate values. Those who observe the trend of the times see an investment preference turning to the earth. It is safe, and in this country where dust storms are infrequent and never disastrous, always positive. It does not move. If you get your money in real estate you know its location. You can go and see it. Sometimes other investments are so transient that G-men couldn't find 'em.

Sent long distance "Merry Christmas" to Chief of Police Howard. The strategy used was that it prevented a personal interview which would have been all right for Howard, but my attorney advised me not to talk.

George Spangler finally disposes of the village blacksmith shop property. It was one of the most primitive business left in the town. Spangler has been on that Sycamore street location almost since the day when Henry W. Longfellow wrote his famous saga. But the march of time, and the commercial complexion and George yield to the modern in business, and takes a healthy check along with him.

I have been reliably informed that Tom and Jerry were taken out of circulation the day before Christmas. One guest favored with too many invitations, and viewing with alarm the possible result, gave a list of his calls to a friend with instructions to "pick him up at the third stop."

I was favored with so many invitations the day before Christmas to the homes of friends that for a time I thought it was a frame-up on the part of the oil companies.

Probably the reason why so many children were left in the cars during the Christmas shopping was that Santa Claus did not want them to see what he was doing. But I imagine a lot of little ones were disappointed because they were not permitted to take part.

Oh, well, who wants to write a column after Christmas anyway. Nobody will feel like reading it. But the boss says he is paying out good money for it, so I'll use up the space which perpetuates my name on the payroll. Hope you will still like the turkey the second and the third day.
